Given the opportunity to influence a significant change in San Antonio, what youth-related issue would you address?	Give he opportunity, I would address youth involvement in illegal activity.
What approach would you take? Who would you work with? Why this particular issue?	Growing up on the citys west side, I saw my peers participating in illegal activities. Now in high school, I see that a way to combat these issues is through education. For many of my peers, I saw them enter high school and discover their passions. I saw them begin to work on their grades in order to maintain their eligibility to play sports. I saw them begin monitoring their social media presence when they joined their school for dance team. For many students, I saw that school saved them. But I know that, in part, they were lucky that their school had ROTC, or marching band, or even a student council organization to be a part of. They should be the norm. I would love to work with school districts, especially my own, SAISD, to implement diverse extra curriculum courses and afterschool activities. Organizations such as the Good Samaritan and Say S are organizations that offer not only afterschool activities, but summer programs that help students explore their passions beyond instructional time. When students have passions, they get dreams. When they dream, they get goals. With a change in priorities, there is no place for substance abuse, no time for gangs, no reason to compromise their future. I am fortunate to know Priscilla, a junior at Edison who is in her schools dental program, and hopes to graduate with a Registered Dental Assistant certificate. I know Abel, who is graduating early this year at Lanier thanks to high school credit courses offered to him in middle school. They all need the

	motivation to stay in school, the resources to thrive, and are examples of what every student in San Antonio deserves.
