Phillip Thomson

Phillip Thomson is a software and database developer for Center for Disease Detection on the northeast side of San Antonio for three years. He is originally from Maryland's Eastern Shore, where he worked for a major telecom company while self-funding his higher education. Phillip moved to San Antonio in July of 2010 after earning his Bachelor's of Science degree in Computer Science. His wife of five years is an educator at a local Catholic high school and a graduate of Trinity University. Phillip served as President of his community's HOA for the past two years, and as an active member and more recently an officer in his Catholic parish's Knights of Columbus Council for the past five years. He has served local communities through a volunteer organization that feeds San Antonio's hungry, as well as ACTS, a Catholic retreat organization, both since 2012.
