The contractor will be responsible for removing existing flooring, moving furniture and installing new flooring and base trim.

A purchasing cooperative was utilized in this instance to assure a contract could be awarded in advance of the planned library closures to allow the contractor sufficient time to order materials and schedule the work. Use of a purchasing cooperative also allowed the Library Department to specify the exact flooring to be installed ensuring the desired colors and textures. Quotes were requested from two local flooring companies that are currently awarded cooperative contracts. Based upon an analysis of the quotes, Gomez Floor Covering offered the lowest cost and possesses demonstrated experience with moving library furniture, including shelving filled with books.

The Great Northwest Branch Library was built in 1994 and the flooring at this location was last replaced in 2006. During the closure periods, the existing flooring will be removed and new flooring will be installed.
